AIR MAIL GAINS
IN POPULARITYPhase of Postal Service
Here to Stay, Says Paul Henderson.

Washington.—Advocates of the development of aviation on a big scale in this country are besieging congress to increase appropriations and to embark upon an air program comparable to that of other great nations. To this end they are employing everything from war threats and scares to ridicule, but their strongest argument is the record of accomplishment in the air-mail service.

The air-mail service is here, and here to stay. This statement is made with all possible emphasis by Col. Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, who has charge of that phase of postal activity.

"I am not absolutely certain that we are, as a civilization, any better off for our ability to fly," he says. "I think there are many arguments on both sides of that rather broad question, but we are able to fly. We cannot undo what has been done and, taking that as a fact, it is quite patently our national duty to fly better than anybody else, and to make every possible practical application of this new trick which we have learned."

Colonel Henderson cites as the outstanding accomplishment of the air-mail service that San Francisco has been permanently moved up to within 34 hours of New York. On one record test this time was beaten by almost eight hours and the schedule will never be longer than the limit now set.

This coast-to-coast service, involving the great hazard of night flying, is now six months old and is operating regularly seven days a week. Every day it is becoming more popular with the public, and in consequence is constantly better patronized. Not everybody uses this service, of course, but those who do use it have learned the value of being able to get important mail in New York the day after it leaves San Francisco and they are insistent that the service be extended rather than curtailed.

What May Be Accomplished.

All this has been accomplished within six years after the establishment of the first air mail route between Washington and New York. What may be done within the next like period is almost beyond conjecture, but perhaps the most important of the things hoped for by departmental authorities is that the cost of carrying mail by air will be reduced from $2.83 to less than 30 cents per ton mile.

This cutting the cost of operation to less than 11 per cent of what it is now is attacked by some as the dream of a visionary, but Colonel Henderson says he is confident it can be done.

"In the last analysis," he says, "efficiency of transportation may be measured by its cost per ton mile, its regularity and dependability, and its speed. The airplane has proved itself, as far as regularity and speed are concerned, but much remains to be accomplished in the matter of cost. The present cost of operating the air mail is altogether too expensive. From now forward the most urgent task of the Post Office department is to attempt to bring down this cost per ton mile. This means ships with greater carrying capacity. That such ships are possible of design and construction, I have no doubt. That they will be built and put into operation I have no doubt."

With reduced operating costs the department hopes to reduce the schedule time between coasts, to increase the frequency of dispatches, and to provide additional service each night between New York and Chicago. Then will come a nation-wide connecting up of all important centers, with nightly service between such centers that are from 1,000 to 1,400 miles apart.

The next step will be the carrying of certain classes of merchandise in the air, and, ultimately, the carrying of passengers. Colonel Henderson does not, however, even suggest that the airplane will ever become in the true sense of the word a competitor of the railroads. He says it is simply a new kind of transportation. There are more goods to transport each year, and some of these goods will find their way into air channels of transport, but the railroads will continue to enjoy even more traffic than they are able to take care of.

Best of Long Distance.
Many people have expressed surprise that the air-mail route between Washington and New York was abandoned, believing that it is of prime importance to have the nation's political and financial capitals linked together with the fastest possible system of communication. The fact of the matter is there was very little saving of time in sending mail by airplane between the two cities, and not enough to make it really worth while.

It is approximately 300 miles by air line from Washington to New York and it took the mail planes at least two hours to fly that distance. It required the better part of an hour to carry the mail out to the flying field at this end of the route, and fully as much time was consumed in getting it from the New York flying field to the post office, ready for distribution. By train the mail could be transported from the heart of Washington to the heart of New York in five hours. This meant an advantage of about an hour on the side of the air service, but that was not deemed sufficient.

Early in the experimental work the men who were studying the matter became convinced that the airplane could not really begin to mean work in the matter of postal transportation until the distances covered were at least 1,000 miles. Hence the drive was begun for the establishment of the transcontinental service.

When night flying was planned at-

Face Powder

A new French process powder that is not affected by perspiration—will not let an ugly shine come through; stays on until you take it off; fine and pure; makes the pores invisible; looks like beautiful natural skin; gives a soft velvety complexion. MELLO-GLO'S DRUG STORES.

Usually the first question was one of lights. The mail plane pilots must have the way blazed for them across the continent by friendly beacons, the regular landing fields must be adequately illuminated and emergency landing places must be indicated. Almost all of the earlier suggestions made to the air-mail service were for the use of some sort of high-powered beam, shining directly and vertically into the air, but experiments with such lights proved them to be anything but desirable. Other suggestions included the illumination by means of searchlights on large white conical structures, such as the dome of the national capitol, the idea being that the reflection would turn the trick.

Hit Upon by Chance.

But that was found impractical and it was only through the merest chance that the effective system was hit upon. Late one night Colonel Henderson was awaiting a train at a station in a small Illinois city. He saw his train coming, or at least he saw the headlight, and began to get his baggage together when a friend told him that there was no hurry, that the train was still at least seventeen miles away, and that the reason he saw it was because the track was perfectly straight for those seventeen miles and he was looking directly into the headlight of the locomotive.

"Right there we solved at least for the moment, our problem of lights," says the air mail chief. "All we had to do was put a brilliant searchlight up in the air and revolve it so that at least once in each revolution it would shine directly into the eyes of the pilot."

The department now has lights, operated on this principle, the larger of which is visible on an ordinary night for over 150 miles, and the smaller for over forty miles.

Attends Movies Nightly for 18 Years; Unmarried

Bath, Maine.—William K. Hall, fifty-eight, a bachelor, claims to be the champion movie fan of New England, having attended a motion picture here every week-day night for 18 years with but five or six exceptions.

Hall, who is a sign painter by trade, likes western pictures best. He likes those full of action, lots of shooting and all that sort of thing. Vamps do not interest Hall. He sits through, but abhors the so-called "sex" pictures. He admits quite frankly that a story with a love plot bores him.

Hall likes Hoot Gibson better than any of the other stars. Despite his long patronage of the movie houses of Bath, Mr. Hall has never seen a movie made, except as depicted by the films themselves. He hopes some time to be able to visit Hollywood. Hall thinks that films are improving in quality.

Musically, Hall likes "dance" music best. "I had rather sit down and listen to a fiddle than a band," he remarked. In the old days it cost Hall just 10 cents to enjoy a play. Now prices are higher. He does not accept free tickets, despite his fame as a theatergoer, but pays as he enters invariably.

Civil War Vet's Name Cleared After 60 Years

Kalamazoo, Mich.—After efforts extending over 60 years, Mrs. A. H. Harmon has succeeded in having the stigma of desertion entered against her husband stricken from the records of the War department and she now will receive a widow's pension.

Harmon, a resident of Canada, came to the United States and enlisted in the Union army in the Civil war. He was wounded in September, 1864, and was sent home on furlough. Before he recovered the war ended, and as he never reported to his regiment, he was listed as a deserter. An affidavit was obtained by Mrs. Harmon, showing that although her husband was anxious to return to the army, he was restrained from doing so by his physicians. The house committee on military affairs accepted this affidavit and Harmon's record was cleared.

This Wild Boar Practiced Medicine Without License

Bourges, France.—Pursued by hunters, a wild boar dashed into a private house in the village of Grand Malher, near here, and made his way into a bedroom where an invalid had been lying for months. The sick man shrieked for help, then arose and jumped out of the window. The wild boar was finally killed. The invalid has returned to work.

Teach Dodging

Scholarship for Essay on Roads

With Annual Competition Open to High Schools is Announced by Highway Education Board—Department of Education (Cooperating Agency in State).

Telegraph to The Freeman, Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—An offer of four years at college with expenses paid is contained in the announcement made here today by the Highway Education Board of the 15th annual good roads essay contest, in which all high school students are eligible to participate.

In line with administration policies tending toward economy, students are being requested to write essays on the subject, "Economies Resulting from Highway Improvement," having in the two preceding years written papers on subjects dealing with highways and religion and highways and home life.

The contest in the various states usually is sponsored by one of the leading universities or the state department of education. In New York the cooperating agency is the Administration Division of the State Department of Education at Albany, which will aid in the announcement of the contest, and at its termination will name competent judges to determine the best essay from that state. The best three essays from each high school are to be sent there for review.

The principal prize is a four years' university scholarship, offered by H. S. Firestone, of Akron, Ohio, a member of the Highway Education Board, of which the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Dr. J. H. Tager, is chairman. This scholarship, which in the past five years has been won by three young women and two young men, provides that the successful contestant may attend any college or university in the United States, with tuition, room, board, books and special fees paid by the donor. It is said to be the largest single educational award offered in this country, and its estimated value to the winning student is approximately $1,000 annually, or at least $4,000 for the four years.

Many state awards are offered by the cooperating organizations including tuition scholarships, cash prizes, loving cups and medals. By educational authorities this annual competition among high school students, started in 1920, is declared to have been the first essay contest to assume national proportions. It annually attracts approximately a quarter of a million contestants, the number who submit essays depending on the nature of the subject. Entire high schools often participate as part of their school duties. Essays are received from every state in the Union, while many of the best come from outlying territories and possessions, such as Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone.

The award in 1924 went to John Lisak, a Wisconsin high school student, whose subject was "The Relation of Improved Highways to Home Life." The first winner, Miss Katherine Butterfield, of Weiser, Idaho, was graduated last year from Northwestern University, near Chicago. Other successful students were Miss Garland Johnson, Bridgeport, West Virginia, 1921; Karl G. Pearson, District of Columbia and Lindsborg, Kansas, 1922; and Miss Dorothy Roberts, Harlan, Kentucky, 1923. With the exception of Lisak, all of these students are in college and he will enter when he has completed his high school course.

Rules of the contest do not limit participation to high school seniors, but provide that any student attending high school may submit an essay. No other conditions, except those governing the preparation of the paper itself, are provided. Essays must not exceed 700 words, in length and must be handed to school principals or teachers not later than May 1, 1925. Selection of the best essay is by a process of elimination.

Complete information will be forwarded each person who inquires of the Highway Education Board, Willard Building, Washington, D. C.

The best essays of previous years have been collected in pamphlet form and are available for distribution. These booklets may be found in most libraries, or had upon request to the board.

SHADY.

Shady, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Eugene Hoyt entertained Wednesday at a quilting party Mrs. S. N. Vosburgh, Mrs. E. C. Vosburgh, Mrs. Charles Reynolds, Mrs. J. B. Hoyt, Mrs. E. B. Simmons and Mrs. F. W. Burhans. The ladies all reported a fine time.

Frederick R. Reynolds is ill with a cold. We hope to see him out very soon again.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elmhurst and son, Junior, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hoyt Sunday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Bryon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hoyt Sunday last.

All are glad to learn that J. B. Hoyt is improving after being ill for several weeks.

Miss Kathryn Reynolds of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Reynolds.

Mrs. Gladys Hoyt and daughter, Ruth, called at the home of Mrs. Grant Johnston Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Griggs spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burhans and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Reynolds spent Sunday afternoon and evening with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Reynolds.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, Feb. 13.—Sunday services as follows: Sunday school at 1 p. m. Church service at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. G. W. Gulick preached an excellent sermon last Sunday from the text 1st Kings 14:22.

M. F. Dero is making improvements to his residing by putting on a bay window.

The Social Club, with their husbands, met at Wallace Terpening's Wednesday night.

Mrs. Elmira Ellsworth spent the week end with friends in Kingston. The young people gave Elva Eckert a birthday surprise at the Red Men's Hall Friday evening.

Blue birds and robins have been seen here which indicate spring is near. The snow is melting away fast.

There was no school Thursday, it being Lincoln's birthday.

To Draw Jury Saturday.

A panel of grand and trial jurors will be drawn at the county clerk's office Saturday to attend the Ulster county term of the supreme court, to convene at 2 p. m. on Monday, March 2, at the court house in Kingston. Justice Wesley O. Howard of Troy will preside at the term of court.

EVENING
FAIRY TALE

PETER'S VISITS

The people in Fairyland were always very much interested in hearing what the children were doing, of their games and their frolics and Peter Gnome often used to go to children's parties and watch them at play. It really wasn't rude of him for he put on his invisible robe so no one could see him and he wasn't in the way at all.

He had a beautiful time early one morning watching two children playing the telephone game.

They each had a little toy telephone and they played that they were telephoning people just as they had heard their mothers talk.

"Hello," said one, "please give me 145 Party J." And the other answered:

"Yes, this is 145 Party J. Did you wish to speak to me?"

"Oh, yes, my dear, how are you this morning? Well, I had the loveliest time yesterday afternoon. I called you up to tell you all about it."

Next he saw two children sitting in a big box and the big box was in a mill bigger puddle and they were playing that they were on a boat.

Another little girl was playing "house" with her friend and she was saying:

"Dear Mr. Ice-man, why didn't you leave ice for me today? Do you know now where I can get any?"

And the other girl who was supposed to be the ice-man answered in a gruff voice:

"Go to the North pole and you'll find some, lady."

Some other children were starting out with their dolls for a trip and they were saying to their dolls:

"We have to pay to ride on the cars, but you are young enough to travel free."

Then Peter went to a zoo where most of the people about spoke another language, for he went a long.

Played That They Were Telephoning.

long way this time. But the animals still grunted and squealed and chattered in their own way to Peter's great relief.

Coming back he called on an old schoolmate and had a most adventure some time.

He sang to himself at times and this was one of the songs he sang:

The ocean and the sky
And our boat plowing steadily on
While trees and lands and streets
Are quite completely gone.

It was quite true, too, that they had left trees and streets in the far distance now for quite awhile.

He listened to the sea gulls saying the same things over and over and he thought how much they were like some people who said the same things over and over.

But they were so graceful and so beautiful and they always made the scenery more interesting. Then he liked to hear their funny laughing voices and he thought their good appetites showed how healthy they were.

He certainly would tell them in Fairyland, how he could see, when he looked from the top of the mast, only where the sky and sea met all around. There was a blue ridge in the distance and beyond he couldn't see.

He thought of all the curious things he had seen on this trip—the donkey and dog wagons and how much they had to work. But then, too, he had been in one little place and every day the dogs had all met together on the beach and had gone in swimming and had played and had a beautiful time.

It had seemed just as if they had named an hour to meet on the beach. He had seen woolly white sheep lying on stones on rocky hills, and he had watched scampering wild rabbits and great flocks of wild birds.

He had made friends with a dear little dog as they had warmed themselves before a fire when everyone was out and the little dog had felt so blissful lying on his back by the warm fire and having Peter Gnome rub his chest.

Oh, Peter had made many a visit and had seen many a quaint and interesting sight at home and far away. But the best thing of all was always, he thought, to go back home again!

The KITCHEN CABINET

Let your task be to render yourself worthy of love, and this even more for your own happiness than for that of another.—Masterlinck.

THINGS TO EAT

Delicious stews may be made of small pieces of meat if the family is small. Take one pound or less of round steak, cut into small pieces and add with cold water to cover a small onion or two, cook for two or three hours at a simmering temperature; the last hour add a few potatoes sliced thin and cook until they are soft. There should be some suet added with the meat to give richness to the stew. Season with salt and pepper, adding water if needed, and serve very hot.

Lamb Stew.—Cut three pounds of the neck of lamb into convenient-sized pieces for serving, brown in three tablespoons of drippings, add two onions cut into dice, one carrot diced, one sprig of parsley, one small piece of bay leaf, two cloves, eight peppercorns and salt to taste. Pour over one cupful of boiling water, one cupful of tomatoes; add six diced potatoes and two cupfuls of peas. Simmer on the back part of the stove for three hours or cook five minutes at the boiling temperature, then place in a fireless cooker for five hours.

Pork Chops and Parsnip Stew.—Put six or eight pork chops into a kettle, add five good-sized parsnips which have been washed and scraped and cut into one-inch pieces, add five diced potatoes, one chopped onion, salt and pepper to season. Cook slowly for twenty minutes, thicken with flour blended with cold water, cover closely and simmer for three hours on the back of the stove.

Hungarian Stew.—Take two pounds of lean shoulder steak, cut into small pieces and marinate with two table-spoonsful of strong vinegar, two table-spoonsful of grated onion, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of caraway seed, the same of sweet marjoram, leaving it two hours.

Add the meat and seasonings, two table-spoonsful of butter, cook until brown, add one tablespoonful of flour, brown, add one cupful of boiling broth, simmer for four hours. Add one-half cupful of cream, a dash of paprika and serve.

5006. Velvet and pongee, or velvet and broadcloth may be combined for this style. It is good also for linen, seersucker and other wash fabrics. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length.

The pattern is cut in 2 sizes, 2, 4, and 6 years. A 4 year size requires 1 1/4 yard for the blouse, and 1 1/4 yard for the trousers, cuffs and collar 36 inches wide.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 25c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice. Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 300 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a complete and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustration 36 of the various, simple stitches). All valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Expanding It. Perhaps it's called a common cold because it's common to all sorts and conditions of men.

Constipation causes blotchy complexion get relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Permanent relief and improved appearance brought to thousands.

Constipation is a serious, insidious disease. Over forty dangerous diseases can be traced to it. And minor ills, such as unpleasant breath, headaches, blotchy complexion.

Don't let constipation send its poisons into your body, not even for one day. Get permanent relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It has brought health to thousands—after people have suffered for years; and all else has failed.

It will bring sure relief to you! Kellogg's is ALL-BRAN. That is why doctors recommend it. That is why it is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Nothing but ALL-BRAN brings sure relief in the most chronic cases.

Eat at least two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Delicious with fruits. Try it in muffins, and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nature's own way of cleaning the intestine. It is made in Battle Creek, Michigan, and served at leading restaurants everywhere. Your grocer sells it.

Middletown Bus Fare Ten Cents

Effective March 10, the Wallkill Public Service Corporation will raise the fare for bus transportation within Middletown from seven to ten cents. The Public Service Commission has been informed of the change. It is unnecessary to petition for a new schedule of rates. The only way the new rate could be defeated would be by action brought about by residents of the city.

Recently a ten cent fare went into effect in Newburgh for bus service, which has taken the place of the trolley service.

Made Death Ray

H.G. MATTHEWS

Harry Graden Matthews, English inventor of the "Death Ray," is in New York for conferences with American scientists. As no disposition has yet been made of Matthews' invention, which is supposed to kill all that is subjected to its light, it is possible that tests looking to its utilization may grow out of the conference.

Find City of David

Excavations in progress for six months in Opel, close to the area where stood the Jewish temple, seem to have revealed this as the indisputable site of the city of David, according to Rev. J. Garrow Duncan, director of the Palestine exploration fund.

His explorations have led him to what he is convinced is the eastern side of David's city, where he has discovered not only a wall 27 feet thick and which he has traced for 200 yards but also a magnificent tower of David. He is certain he has discovered the real Jebusite wall of the fort, which was standing when David took it in the year 1000 B. C., says the Kansas City Times.

The discovery of the remains of the ancient city of David is of great interest to archeologists, who have long debated the location of the original site of ancient Jerusalem. Mr. Duncan says in addition to finally settling the point, he has been able to prove the site where David's city stood has been continuously inhabited for more than five thousand years, some of the pottery unearthed at Opel belonging to the cave-dwelling period of three thousand years B. C. and before.

But Not the Collection

Snoot Gulch, a metropolis of the great open spaces, had at one time supported a small church, but the population had slowly dwindled until it was impossible longer to collect enough money to pay the parson's salary. The parson, therefore, doffed the cloth and established a lunch room near the station.

One Sunday night a traveler who had regularly passed Snoot Gulch dropped in at the lunch room and ordered supper. After having waited for more than a half hour without being offered more than a glass of water, he called to the former parson "Yes," replied that gentleman.

"I was just wondering, parson, said the traveling man, "if you had cut out the Sunday evening service."—Judge.

Best Not to Be Hasty

The earth is neither round, flat, square nor hollow, but is crooked and shaped somewhat like a dumb-bell, says Charles Searles of Elmira, N. Y. This is too bad, because it means that all the old geographies in the schools which show the world to be round will now have to be thrown out. Perhaps, however, it will be wise not to be in too much of a hurry about it, as some one else may shortly tell us that the earth is three-cornered, or shaped like a doughnut or a string of sausages or a bunch of bananas.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Huge Illuminated Cross

As a silent preacher, a huge cross, fashioned with steel beams after the manner of a skyscraper, has been erected on the heights of historic Mount Royal at Quebec. Electric lights will make the emblem visible at night, and because of its huge size and location on the lofty summit, the cross can be seen from a considerable distance even by day.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Coats and Frocks for Little Girls

New Models Attractive and Appropriate to Years of Their Wearers.

Youthful fashions are often just a reflection of the modes of their elders and this winter there is no exception to this rule. A few weeks ago the fashion of natural colored kasha trimmed with fur in light tones was launched. It immediately caught on and the result is that designers have used the same idea in developing children's coats and frocks.

Several new models have been brought out that are wonderfully attractive and have a youthful charm appropriate to the years of their wearers. Of special interest are coats of kasha in a pale natural tone. They are straight in line and are tailored with the greatest care so that every detail is perfect.

Collar and cuffs are of natural colored wolf. In many instances a touch of lacquer red is introduced either in the lining or in the form of narrow bands or a bit of embroidery. A winsome model recently seen is one of the most interesting of these coats, as the color of the lining is repeated in the facing of the pockets and in touches of embroidery.

Shown with these little coats are the smartest frocks of kasha, crepe de chine or georgette crepe in a shade of red that matches the lining, and to carry out the color scheme there is a smart little felt hat trimmed with tiny bows of grosgrain ribbon.

On another coat similar to this there were also cuffs of fur, and the touch of red appears in narrow bands on the long tuxedo collar.

Novelty Materials and

Why They Are Costly

Where, sighs the old-fashioned shopper, are the silks comparable to those which our feminine ancestors used to hand down generations—a wedding gown for one, perhaps, a ball costume for the next, a less elaborate frock for the third?

But the truly modern shopper understands that the change from these practically indestructible cloths of old has been accompanied by quite decided benefits. The chief one of these has to do with expense, since these old cloths regarded as heirlooms were exceedingly costly to produce. Second, there is not much question that the more perishable goods of today, after all, more sanitary than that stored away for generations.

The swift-moving fashions of today are responsible for this new type of goods. And new names, new weaves, new designs, new colors, new finishes, are brought out with each season. These are known as the novelty cloths as opposed to the standards. Today's standards are not, of course, intended to rival those old-time cloths; but they may be defined as the cloths which are well known to all buyers of clothing materials, the ones which vary little from year to year, which are practically always on the market, and in which you may be sure of a certain quality for a certain price. They are, in other words, the staples among cloths—such ones as serge, broadcloth, velvet, satin and linen.

Now, the excellencies of the standard cloths on the one hand and the special attractions of the novelty cloths on the other, should be considered carefully before you buy. Novelty materials ordinarily are less value, dollar for dollar. The reason they are more expensive is because, first, novel designs are costly, for they represent constantly developing new ideas. Second, they mean more expense in manufacturing—a new material sometimes necessitates a new machine; different raw materials are required, and perhaps new processes are to be taught to the workmen. Finally, there is the higher cost of marketing because of the risk that the novelty may not "take."

Frivolous Offense

Two thirty-year-old men in Vienna, Austria, who were looking for apples in a park, were charged with a frivolous offense because they were seen to be eating the same apple. One of the older men claimed that his opponent was using his hand to move the apple in the tree. Police were called to stop the quarrel.

Weight of Eggs

The Department of Agriculture says that there is no government standard for the weight of an egg, so the weight varies considerably. However, eggs that are of a good average size usually weigh 24 ounces a dozen. Smaller eggs weigh as low as 16 ounces a dozen, and some exceptionally selected eggs weigh 28 ounces a dozen.

The Kingston Follies Again

Acting in accordance with promises made last season, enhanced with the many requests that have been received by the city theater-going public, announcement comes that the Kingston Opera House is now engaged in the work of getting ready the second annual presentation of "The Kingston Follies," the first edition of which proved such a successful innovation.

It is planned to produce a bigger and better production this year, with the same originality and theme as before, that of using some 30 or 40 local girls to surround a Broadway cast, comprising twenty professional comedians and musical comedy favorites.

Applications are now being received at the Opera House for active participation in this revue that will show off the talents and histrionic abilities of Kingston's daughters. These young ladies will be trained by a specially engaged producer, who will put them through a course of singing and dancing routines during the rehearsals incidental to the actual presentation throughout the entire week beginning February 23rd.

It is pointed out that the special stage training being offered will be given to all girls selected absolutely without a penny of expense to themselves. To all will be given an equal opportunity of distinguishing themselves in the eyes of their fellow-townsmen. Everything will be furnished these girls in the furtherment of their aspirations—costumes, shoes, stockings, cosmetics, etc.—as well as the aforementioned legitimate stage training.

Producer Harry Linton, well known here, promises all Kingston a production that will not only do him proud, but will make the entire community thoroughly appreciative of the native talents of its girls and young women. He lays stress, however, on the importance of those planning to participate to enlist their names without any delay, in order that they may receive a full measure of instruction and rehearsals, calculated to do themselves justice after the actual premiere.

Edward Heller, representative of the producers, has established his headquarters at the Opera House, where he may be seen for the purpose of registration of names. He issues a cordial invitation to all those wishing to take part, to enter their names at once, before the lists are entirely full.

NEWBURGH HEALTH BOARD ENDORSES TOXIN ANTITOXIN.

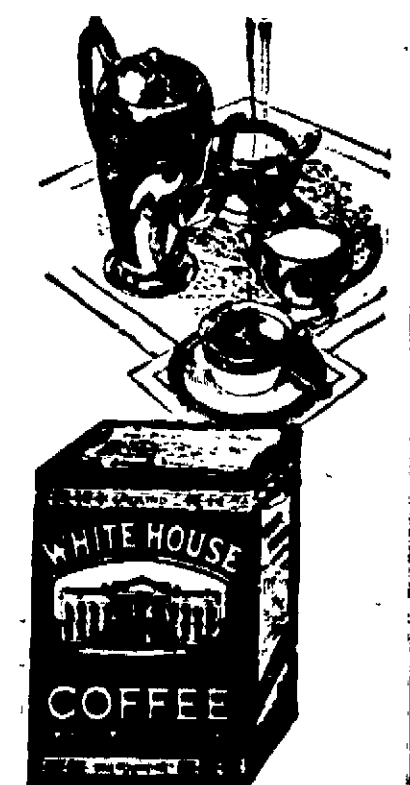

The policy of the Newburgh board of health in recommending the use of toxin antitoxin to immunize children against diphtheria has been endorsed. There have been a number of both diphtheria and scarlet fever cases reported in that city. Kingston has been using toxin antitoxin for several years with good effect in keeping down the number of cases of diphtheria. It is expected that next summer the local health board will again arrange for free clinics for the injection of the toxin.

Fish's Change of Color

As a quick-change artist the parrot fish has few equals. Swimming about in the tropical waters, the parrot fish is a clear turquoise green during the daytime. Finding a quiet nook among the stones and weeds, its color fades to a dull olive. Further changes go on whilst it sleeps. Numerous reddish brown spots appear on its body.

Placed in an aquarium having a plain green bottom, the parrot fish retains its coat of green and does not put on night clothes. But if a few large stones are dropped into the aquarium, corresponding blotches appear on the sleeping fish.

A NEW FRENCH FROCK.

(By Eleanor Gann.)

A rather general sponsorship of fuller skirts is to be expected for spring, and with the changing silhouette in frocks comes, of course, a desire—or need, really—for balance and for maintaining correct proportions.

Hats are, of course, affected. Crowns are, in consequence, larger, brims broader, and collars are being given upward or narrower lines. Sleeves are long and usually tight, but there are those who are hurrying toward the goal of the large sleeve—with the fulness usually introduced at the wrist, or rather just above.

The straight or relatively straight line is a dear familiar theme still played upon. Collars do manifest an upward tendency—not only actual collar types, but those which taper into a deep V, a neckline more frequently seen than any other. This is true at most hours of the day and night, for the evening frock with deep V at back—if not back and front—is a growing favorite.

The majority of sports frocks and jumpers are cut in wedge shape necklines, and other frocks less bound to occasion, follow their lead. The narrow collar is sponsored by many smart houses, but that there is a collar at all is still something of a news item.

(Copyright, 1925, Fairchild.)

"THEY ARE WEARING"—

One of the first straw hats to make their appearance on Fifth avenue was a medium sized fine black straw hat with drooping sides and slightly upturned back. About the crown was twisted velvet in two tones matched by the clustered grapes in the same tones at the back.

Novelties in glove cuffs are rather striking in some instances. A fashionable woman wrapped in a sable coat wore tan gloves with cuffs of bright gold perforated leather. Deeply pointed cuffs of plaid taffeta in mauve tones finished a pair of castor gloves worn with a squirrel coat.

Jade velvet in a wrap or tailored lines was effectively trimmed with ermine.

Many "half and half" wraps are seen, with deep yokes of metal cloth, the skirt portion of a contrasting fabric, after a brocade.

Printed and monochrome brocaded velvets in wraps are considered to be clever cut by many smart women.

That the full skirt is making a strong bid for favor was quite apparent at a smart night club recently when beautiful and full circular skirts ried with tubular line for popularity.

Incidentally, the straightline frock showed a number of interesting features. Bottomed edges were of irregular lengths on a broad frock, points small and numerous on another of the same type, and petticoated skirts were cut both large and small, wide and narrow.

THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and excels for building up the system after illness or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Was She a Fool?

To satisfy her parents, Evelyn became engaged to Eugene. But she was not happy. In her eyes, Eugene was too perfect, too gentle and too good. The ideal lover she dreamed of had in him something of the savage. She pictured him as big, virile, masterful, brave. Then in the black, frozen wastes of Alaska, a devil, disguised as Evelyn's ideal of a "man", came into her life. Followed a drama of elemental passion, fierce hate and fiercer love that was to test Eugene's manhood to the limit and try Evelyn's very soul. The outcome is as thrilling as it is unexpected. Evelyn tells the story under the title of "The Primitive Lover." Read it in True Story Magazine for March.

THE SANDMAN STORY

TOM KITTEN'S LUCK

TOM KITTEN had had a hard time of it ever since he could remember. If he ever had a mother he did not remember her, and he never had a home.

Tom slept anywhere he happened to find a place when he was tired running away from big dogs. In fact, most of his life, it seemed to Tom, had been spent in running from dogs and dodging stones and brooms.

One day Tom found himself in a place where there were no high buildings or noisy street cars. Tom Kitten did not think there could be so many trees in the world as he could see now. He felt so happy he ran, and the farther he ran the nicer things looked.

Awakened by a Big Dog Barking Right in His Face.

Little white houses and more trees and flowers, and, best of all, Tom found garbage cans.

"This is a pretty good country to live in," thought Tom that night when he crept behind a barrel on the soft grass to sleep, but he was rudely awakened in the morning by a big dog barking right in his face.

Tom was city bred and quick at jumping, and he was on top of a fence before the dog had recovered from his surprise at a scratch Tom gave him on the tip of his nose, and pretty soon the dog tired of barking at Tom, ran away, and Tom went hunting for his breakfast.

He found plenty to eat, and that night he slept under some steps, where he found an old bag, the nicest bed

Tom ever had known, and in the morning, when the sun shone in through the cracks nice and warm and awoke him, Tom Kitten for the first time in his life did not have to jump and run.

Instead he stretched himself and yawned, and if he were not so hungry Tom thought he would like to stay there the rest of his nine lives, for he was certain something dreadful must be awaiting him outside.

But when he crawled out from under the steps and looked around all was still, so he walked up the steps and sat in the warm sunshine to make his toilet.

Tom eyed a bottle of milk on the steps. There was no way of getting any, and he had tasted milk only a few times. That was when someone broke a bottle and he was able to get a few licks before he was driven away.

While he was washing his face someone opened the door, and instead of a bang from a broom a pleasant voice said, "Hello, puss, where did you come from?"

Tom was quite surprised at the nice sound he made as he rubbed against the nice voiced person. He had never done much purring, and he was pleased with the sound.

The kitchen door was open, and as Tom looked in he saw a mouse, and forgetting brooms and stones he ran in and caught it.

"Well, if this puss can't catch a mouse!" exclaimed the nice person. "You are a real cat. You don't wait for your breakfast to be brought to you on a plate. You shall have a saucer of milk."

Tom crawled under the stove. He had never seen one before, but somehow he knew just what to do, and while he was doing he heard someone say, "We'll keep that kitten. He knows how to catch mice."

That night behind the stove Tom found a nice bed made for him. "This is what I call luck," said Tom as he curled up for a good night's sleep. Not all night, of course, for Tom knew that mice run about mostly in the dark, and he wanted to show he was grateful for such a good home, so he slept with one ear open, ready to catch the tiniest sound.

The Appleton Family

Mr. Lyander John Appleton
Mrs. Lyander John Appleton
Miss Dayne Mayne Appleton
Master Chancery Devere Appleton

MRS. LYANDER JOHN APPLETON claims to be the neatest housekeeper in her town. Her kitchen floor was painted two months ago, and she points to it with pride now. Not a vestige of paint left on it. Ordinarily, it takes three years to scrub all the paint off a kitchen floor, but Mrs. Appleton did it in two months.

If Lyander John Appleton gave the guests all the chicken his wife begs them to eat, there would be nothing left for the Appleton family but the neck and the gravy.

Dayne Mayne Appleton has issued a card to the public as follows: "Perhaps, being only a simple little girl, my influence in this great world will never amount to much, but what little weight it may possess I wish to throw in the interests of peace. I desire to ask kind friends that they no longer invite my father, the Honorable Lyander John Appleton, to any evening entertainments. When he goes the invitation he roasts till he has reached the hostess' door, and is criss for a week afterward. He always says he won't go, and my mother always makes him, and he gets so tied up that it is almost impossible for me to coax any money out of him for a month later. If kind friends will add to their invitations, 'Mr. Appleton Not Expected,' I may get him back to that calm, subsiding state of mind where it will be longer before he is ready to pick his pockets after night." Valuable to Science

The American Nautical Almanac is a mathematical publication of the bureau of equipment of the naval observance. It contains tables of positions of various heavenly bodies at stated times and other information of like nature and is issued several years in advance. It is used by navigators, astronomers and geodesists.

A long bright white spar given the masked player its name, says Nature Magazine. It has a long point on the end of each wing. It lives in the Malacca Islands, New Guinea, and the northern part of Australia.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

A RAY OF SUNSHINE

IT MATTERS not how lowly we may be, nor how dread life-tides about our little selves may ebb and flow, there is always some one among our friends and acquaintances upon whom we can shed a ray of sunshine.

Some one is living under darker skies than we, longing for encouraging words or cheering smiles; some one is starving for affection which means to him or her a lamp of hope; some one is striving to overcome ruinous habits, too weak to hold his or her frail craft on a safe course.

Each one needs a ray of friendship, the blessed boon which if used aright would make the whole world brighter, knit mankind closer in happiness, soothe aching hearts, dry burning tears and hide from cold stares the beggar's outstretched hand.

There is something in soul-sunshine that penetrates the toughest fiber in human nature.

So send forth this mystic cheer far and wide.

There are hungry hearts everywhere, behind walls of marble and slabs of hovel, praying for appreciation and sympathy.

Find one if we can and blow to flame the spark that kindles love. Scatter sunshine across the sea and over the land until it shall turn night to noon-tide.

We may speak different dialects, but we can punctuate our sentences with cheer and make ourselves understood, not clumsily nor dimly, but easily and clearly as the sunlight of heaven.

And if we have within us the right spirit, we can continue this beneficent work until love shall canopy the earth, faith and hope flood the dark places with glorious light and sorrow turn to gladness. Whatever the number of good deeds we may have done, however far we have rung the sunshine, there will be those in our lives whom we shall feel that we have not done enough to merit the peace which is ours—unspokeably sweet and rich beyond price.

Passing the Buck On Geography

High Schools and Colleges Each Hope The Other Will Teach That Subject, Says Dr. Roselli in Interesting Lecture on Ancient Roman City.

The first of the series of lectures to be given by Dr. Bruno Roselli of the Junior League was given at the chapel of the First Reformed Church Tuesday afternoon. It was an illustrated lecture on "Leptis Magna."

Dr. Roselli, who has lectured here before, was introduced by Mrs. Robert R. Rodie who also stated that next week's lecture would be given at the Fair Street Reformed Church instead of the First Reformed church.

The speaker prefaced his lecture by telling of his first visit to Kingston as a youth of seventeen, who came for a few hours, and being fascinated by the mystery of the place—Roundout, Kingston, each going nowhere in particular and all being a great delightful park—stayed for several days at "The Mansion House." He expressed himself as glad to come back at this time for this course of lectures.

It was Dr. Roselli's judgment that had archaeologists in the past paid more attention to travelers and less to ancient literature, they would have made greater progress. He expressed himself as profoundly amazed at the lack of knowledge of world geography in America, where the colleges would teach this subject to the youth of the land, and the colleges were equally hopeful that the high schools had taught it. So long as there is in this land such a woeful ignorance of the bare geography of the rest of the world, there is little chance of our being ready for leagues of nations or any such thing, when we do not even know the "How," "Why," "When" of other lands.

Dr. Roselli gave quite a bit of the history of Leptis Magna, now being excavated by an Italian, under the exceedingly progressive ordering of Mussolini who is asking that the enormous task be accomplished in three years.

Leptis Magna was the commercial and political center of North Africa and while a Roman city it was largely occupied by foreign-speaking people. Even its greatest governor, Septimius Severus, born there, had to learn the Latin language. His ambition to make of the place the seat of a great dynasty and to build in it colossal and magnificent structures, and to create of it a greater port, was finally the very undoing of the city. Two jetties which he had built out into the sea, to ward off the incoming sands, only invited the same and created a vast, malarial swamp. Sickness followed and people left Leptis Magna gradually, and it lost its prestige along with the decline and fall of Rome. Finally assailed by sands from the sea and greater sands from the desert, it gradually became completely covered.

In a way, Dr. Roselli considered this a matter for thanksgiving as no other preservative could be found for a great city equal to that of sand. Leptis Magna is one of the greatest of cities to interest the archaeologists, being vastly larger than Pompeii, which was a sort of paragon with one of the largest American cities. And it was a marvelously well built city, for Septimius Severus was noted for the solidity of his structures.

Dr. Roselli had a large number of marvelous lantern slides of Tripoli and excavations in various stages of Leptis Magna that were intensely interesting and some of them very beautiful. Because of the remarkable state of preservation of the ruins found in Leptis Magna, it is fully expected to restore the city as no other ancient city has been restored.

It was an intensely interesting lecture with its rare lantern slides, and Dr. Roselli's exquisite sense of humor added much to the charm of his talk.

The subject of next week's lecture will be "Duse, Pirandello, Papini."

Discuss Water For Port Ewen

Improvement Society Will Go Over Matter of Village Water Supply at Meeting Wednesday Evening, February 18.

A very important meeting of the Port Ewen Improvement Society will be held at the Port Ewen fire house on Wednesday evening, February 18, at 7:45 o'clock. At that time the committee will meet with H. J. Harder, civil engineer of Waterson, N. J., and the matter of a water supply for the village will be gone over with the engineer. The aim of the improvement society is to provide an adequate supply of water for household use and for fire purposes as well as other conveniences which a progressive village should have.

Mr. Harder is a member of the American Society of Engineers and also a member of the American Water Works Association and is competent to give some excellent advice to the committee. The question of a water supply for the village will be carefully gone over with him.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Webb Re-elected President of G. L. F.

At a meeting of shareholders of the Cooperative G. L. F. Exchange, Inc., held in Saratoga Springs last week, N. F. Webb of Cortland was re-elected president and Henry Burden of Cazenovia was re-elected vice president. M. C. Burritt of Hilton was elected treasurer and George Kirkland of Dewittville, secretary. These offices were held formerly by Raymond Hitchings who resigned because of the pressure of farm duties. Mr. Webb, in his annual president's report, stated that in the G. L. F. New York farmers have a reasonably well financed, completely equipped going organization in the hands of a fairly experienced management. He declared that the future usefulness of the organization for cooperative buying lies in the development of local service and he pointed out that the responsibility for this development lies with the farmers in the communities desiring this service.

Few Cancellations Expected by Dairy-men's League

Officers of the Dairy-men's League Co-operative association report that they see no cause for worry over the annual withdrawal which begins Feb. 12 and ends Feb. 28. A normal number of cancellations are expected because it has been a year of depressing conditions in the dairy industry and many dairy farmers have discontinued farming or sold their dairies.

The recent improvement in League milk prices, largely due to the expansion of the League's fluid milk market in New York city and with the prospects of a very good price for January milk as well as for February, gives League farmers a more hopeful outlook than they have had for a long time.

Farm Federation Wants Farmer Control of Muscle Shoals Fertilizer

A resolution reaffirming the position of the American Farm Bureau Federation on the disposition of Muscle Shoals was passed at the meeting of the executive board of the federation held in Chicago last week. The resolution urges "first, that farmer board control should be provided for; second, that reasonable limitation be placed on profits to be realized, and that if less power per ton of fertilizer is found practicable in future years that such development will be reflected in increased tonnage of fertilizer rather than in sale or rental of the power."

Amesle, President of Vegetable Growers' Association

J. D. Amesle of Williamson was elected president of the New York State Vegetable Growers' association at the recent annual meeting of that association in Syracuse. Other officers elected were as follows: L. E. Avery of Syracuse, vice president; T. H. Townsend of Waterville, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Paul Work of Ithaca, L. H. Myers of Selkirk, Albert Shillroth of Orchard Park, and Clarence Steele of Ella.

Mrs. G. T. Powell to Broadcast Feb. 23

Mrs. G. T. Powell, who as president of the New York State Home Bureau Federation is the recognized leader of farm women in this state will broadcast from station WGY, Schenectady on Feb. 23 at 7:15 p. m. Mrs. Powell will talk on "Our Famous Neighbors." She will broadcast at the invitation of the New York State Farm Bureau federation as a part of their monthly radio program.

The progress of the homemaker, particularly the rural homemaker, is the subject of Mrs. Powell's talk.

Handling Gumbo Soil

The best plan of handling heavy gumbo soil which is well drained, is to seed it to alfalfa and leave it in a crop like alfalfa, which requires no cultivation, for as long periods as possible. Heaviness of the soil can also be improved by growing sweet clover and by adding manure or some other form of organic matter. The incorporation of organic matter is a much more practical method of improving it than the application of lime.

Federation Committee Appointed to Rochester Exposition

Eros Lea, president of the New York State Farm Bureau federation, has announced the appointment of the federation representatives on the directorate of the Rochester Exposition. The committee is composed of Charles Porter of Albion, M. C. Burritt of Hilton, S. L. Strittgers of Canastota, Frank A. Salisbury of Phelps and L. J. Sweeney of Marcellus.

Large Farm Operators Served by Federal Land Bank

A recent report from the Federal Land bank at Springfield shows that large farm operators are particularly benefited through the service of the Land bank. According to this statement the average sized loan made by the bank is about $3,000, but many loans of from $10,000 to $25,000 have been made on farms in New York state.

The library of the Chinese consulate in the Seventh century, contained 30,000 volumes. In the fifteenth century, 2,000 Chinese scholars, commissioned to conduct the great exam, succeeded in producing it to 20,000 volumes.

DOUKHOBOR LEADER CALLED GREAT MAN

Peter Veregin Had Implicit Confidence of Followers.

One of the strangest characters in modern history was killed in a mysterious bomb explosion a short time ago aboard a Canadian Pacific train en route between Nelson and Grand Forks, B. C. a writer in the Chicago Journal informs us. He was Peter Veregin, head of the Russian religious sect known as the Doukhobors, or "Spirit Wrestlers." The Canadian police say the bomb was a plot to kill Veregin. Five others met a similar fate.

The figure of Peter Veregin was indeed one of awe-inspiring personality. If ever there was a born leader of men, Peter Veregin was one. He was the seventh leader of the religion. Preceding him was a woman, Lookeria Vassilievna, who succeeded her husband in this capacity. She found and marked Veregin for leadership when he was a mere boy. He belonged to a very wealthy family of the Doukhobor persuasion and he followed her implicitly.

Veregin was given a thorough education and prepared painstakingly to assume this important post, which he passed on to him on her death bed. No sooner had he assumed the leadership than he started a movement of passive resistance to the Russian government's system of compulsory military service, and was exiled to Siberia, where he spent 16 years. In the interim the last Doukhobor had migrated to Canada and it was through them that he was pardoned and allowed to join the Saskatchewan colony, over which he had never relinquished his dominating power.

He was looked upon by the Doukhobors as a reincarnation of Jesus Christ. Whenever he went to a village the people turned out, even in dreaching weather and the chill of the northern prairie wind, to prostrate themselves on the ground. He silently received their adoration.

They prayed to him as if to the Creator, and sang hymns of praise to his name. Although Veregin had a wife and family in Russia, he was constantly surrounded by young women, and never traveled without a large number of them in his party.

It was alleged he lived in a palace, a small state, as they all professed to be his wives, married at least, in the strange rites of their church and religion. Witnesses of the worship of Veregin by his fellow Doukhobors declared it to be a passionate exhibition of idolatry.

A circumstance which did much to bring the Doukhobors into disrepute and created a wrong impression of them in 1906 was an unfortunate "photograph" of the Doukhobors taken by a Canadian photographer. The photograph showed the Doukhobors in a state of disarray, with their women dressed in the most primitive and uncivilized manner, and their men in the same state.

grimage in search of Christ. Veregin was pronounced the best example of the benevolent despot in the world. He was absolutely devoted to the interest of the Doukhobors, always planning to advance their cause, not enriching himself, exacting implicit obedience and exercising rigid discipline.

He was a big man in every sense of the word. The history and traditions of his people, his own sufferings, his contact with great men, were his education. He inherited the characteristics of his race, among which are strong reasoning, diplomatic skill and subtlety. He was a theocratic czar, possessing not only the genius but the capacity for governing.

It is now 25 years since the first shipment of these idealists arrived in Canada upon invitation of the Dominion government to settle the huge tract of wild land on which homestead rights had been filed in Saskatchewan. Since that time their wealth in land and worldly goods has increased from nothing well beyond the $3,000,000 mark.

Bisons as Screen Stars

Sixteen of the eighty-six surplus bison that were subtracted from the Yellowstone herd this season have gone to California to join the movies. The Yellowstone bison have often been filmed on their native heath, and during the present season performed a leading role in the production of "The Thundering Herd." The contingent now bound for Hollywood will be active in completing this feature. When this has been completed they will be released on Catalina Island, the Philadelphia Record says.

The animals sent out from the park went to municipalities for the most part, but some went to game preserves and forests and a few to private estates. The largest pair shipped went to Elia Ziegfeld.

The bison herd in Yellowstone park started in 1867 with 21 animals. It came from the Allard herd of western Montana and three bulls from the Goodnight herd of Texas. They multiplied very rapidly, and the herd now numbered 200 on August 1. There were 120 calves last spring and 200 in the spring of 1923.

Be Ready to Put Out Fire

Having a fire extinguisher on hand may mean the saving of valuable property. You can make one yourself. All you have to do is to dissolve 20 pounds of common salt and 10 pounds of chloride of ammonia in 2 gallons of water. Pour this into 100 glass quart bottles, cork well and seal in paraffin. When you discover a fire, break a bottle into the flame and scatter the contents on the fire.

Maryland "Trails"

By provision of an act of the Maryland legislature of 1794 all trails leading to courthouses were marked with two poles on trees on both sides of the road and made branching off and leading to fences had three poles, as "A" on trails leading to the state capital—Annapolis, etc. These marks were branded with a hot iron and colored red. Not many of these marks or even the trees survive.

The name "boucaniers" was given to practical English, Dutch and French adventurers, united in their opposition to Spain, who maintained themselves chiefly in the Caribbean sea during the Seventeenth century. The great of the class were French settlers, whose occupation originally was hunting the wild cattle on the islands, especially Hispaniola, and preserving the flesh of little establishments called "boucan," they being known as "boucaniers." After being driven from these pursuits by the Spaniards, these boucaniers took to piracy, particularly upon Spanish vessels, and to raiding Spanish settlements on the islands and mainland. Their career closed about 1700.

Eastern Flood Losses Large

Albany Still Partly Inundated—Drop in Temperature Welcomed in Flooded Districts—Ice Jams Give Trouble.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 13.—Cold weather was welcomed today by the flood area reaching over six eastern states and menacing river districts in Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York and New Hampshire. A promised extension of the sharp drop in temperature held hope of relief from the high water stages. In upper New York state, from Syracuse to Rochester and from Binghamton and Owego to Hornell, melting snows and the steady downpour which preceded the sharp return to winter weather last night have piled up huge property losses. Ice jams further aggravated the floods.

Schenectady presented a serious situation. Streets along the Mohawk river front were flooded and trolley traffic to Saratoga was halted by a water stage 14 feet above normal. In the remote, country sections, farmers' families were marooned by the swollen rivers and rowboats were being brought to their relief.

Dynamiting Jam at Cohoes.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Streets along the Hudson river front were under water today but weather bureau officials said they expected the cold snap would check the flood. The river, now 15 feet above normal, rose about a foot during the night.

An ice jam in the Hudson near Cohoes will be dynamited today.

Hundreds of cellars along the river front in Albany and Troy are partly filled with water.

The Mohawk river which was nearly 15 feet above normal yesterday dropped about three feet in the night.

Rescue Work at Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Scores of families today were rescued from their homes in the flooded section of East Syracuse.

Boats, rafts, ladders are being used to take people from houses where they were marooned without heat and with their food supply running low.

Efforts were being made today to break up an ice jam that formed at a bridge near the plant of the Syracuse Rubber Company, which is responsible for the flood.

Nome Epidemic Has Abated

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 13.—The Nome diphtheria epidemic has abated, Governor Hone of Alaska, reported today to Secretary of the Interior. Work that no new cases have developed and there is ample anti-toxin on hand.

Society Notes

Hastbrouck-Stahl.
The Rev. Edwin Hunt united in marriage on Thursday at his residence, 76 Clinton avenue, Levi J. Hastbrouck of Hurley and Miss Helen M. Stahl.

Benediction at Benedictine.
The Sisters in charge at the Benedictine Hospital extend a cordial invitation to all those who worked at the recent successful bazaar, to attend Benediction at the chapel of the hospital on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A reception will follow at 4 o'clock at the nurses' home.

Paulus-Flowers.
A very pretty wedding took place Sunday, February 1, at the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church at 2:30, when Gladys Flowers became the bride of William Paulus. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Protzsch. They were attended by Marie Sharp and Fred Paulus, brother of the groom. The bride was charmingly gowned in white silk tulle and carried a bouquet of white roses and a crown of pearls. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid was prettily gowned in primrose and wore a picture hat to match. She carried pink roses. A wedding supper was served at the home of the bride. The bride and groom left for New York on their honeymoon. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Goetteche. The bride and groom received many beautiful and costly gifts.

A Birthday Party.
A very pretty little birthday party was held at the home of Miss Emily Port, 65 Van Buren street, on Lincoln's Birthday in honor of her ninth birthday. The following program was rendered: Piano solo, "Waltz from the Grand Finale," Emily Port; piano solo, Selma Lehr; recitation, "The Boy and Manhood of Lincoln," Mrs. Charles J. Port; vocal solo, Selma Lehr; piano solo, "The Dolls' Tea Party," Emily Port; recitation, Selma Lehr; piano solo, "Morning Greeting," Mrs. Charles Port; boxing match between Raymond Myers and Thomas Miller. Thomas Miller was the winner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Port, Charles H. Port, Louis Port, Emily Port, Ruth Port, Merton Parslow, Thomas Miller, Selma Lehr, Elaine Lehr, Roslyn Lehr, June Mergendahl, Raymond Myers, Mary Quinn. After refreshments had been served, all left, voting Emily a merry little hostess and wishing her many more happy birthdays to come.

Old Chapel Uncovered.
The lost chapel of St. Patrick has been unearthed at St. David's, in Pembroke, England. This relic of bygone days stands ten feet from the highest point reached by the tide, and was originally covered with wind-blown sand, over which turf grew to a depth of from six to twelve inches. All the walls have been uncovered. The chapel faces east-northeast. The measurement of the walls is as follows: Upper end, sixteen feet eight inches; lower, fifteen feet three inches; side walls, each thirty-five feet. At the east end was an altar, nearly four feet long and three feet wide. St. David sent St. Patrick to Ireland as a missionary, and the site of the chapel is about half a mile from St. David's head, which is the nearest point to the Isle of Erin.

Bees Send Scouts for Food.
An eminent German professor who has made a profound study of bees states that bees do a sort of fox trail and rely much on their dancing as a means of communicating ideas to their associates. In experiments the professor said he learned that bees send out scouts to search for food. The scouts, if successful, return to the hive and then execute a dance, which attracts their associates who smell the perfume the scouts have collected and then follow the scout back to where the food awaits them. The professor says he also has learned that bees are unable to distinguish colors, but readily recognize other colors. He asserts that he has fed bees on all colors and has proved that they are blind only to the crimson hue.

Name Often Changed.
The Russian capital has been subjected to many name changes, but in this respect is a long second to the recently beleaguered Peking. In the Twelfth century Peking was known as Chin, but this was changed to Ten early in the Christian era. In the seventh century A. D. it became Tschou, and 300 years later Kian-Ching. This was again altered in the following century to Yen-Ching, and again to the more imposing-sounding Khan-Khalin in the Thirteenth century. The present name of Peking was first used upon nearly 600 years ago, though even this is not correct. It is a Chinese name.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Elia C. Carle, wife of John W. Prince, died Thursday at the family residence, LeFevre Falls, town of Rosendale. Funeral at the late residence on Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. Interment at Saugerties.

Mrs. Anna Purdue, widow of John Purdue, died at her home in Connelly today in her 72nd year. Funeral from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Myers, at Connelly, on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will be private. Those who desire to view the remains may do so on Sunday. Mrs. Purdue is survived by four sons, Henry, Lorenzo and William of Kingston, John of Connelly and William of Kingston, and three daughters, Mrs. E. V. Allen of Kingston, Mrs. Henry Myers of Connelly and Miss Jane Purdue of Connelly.

The funeral of Charles Reynolds, which was held at the funeral chapel of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was largely attended by relatives and friends, merchants, professional men, members of the Elks, of which order he was a member, and representatives of the First National Bank of Rondout and the U. & D. Railroad, where he had been employed for years. There were a number of floral tributes. The services were conducted by the Rev. of M. H. Knapp, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. Interment was in the Reynolds family plot in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Anna O'Toole, widow of Nicholas D. O'Toole and mother of Mrs. James L. Daster and Betty O'Toole, died at her residence, 567 West 161st street, New York city, on Thursday, February 12, 1925.

Funeral on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the chapel and at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Burnett Freer, of Fourth Binnewater died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edwin Booth, of 82 Academy street, Poughkeepsie, on February 1. He would have been 87 years old on February 6, had he lived until then, and was the oldest resident of Fourth Binnewater, which has been his home for years. Mr. Freer was known to every one as "Grandpa Freer" and all will mourn his loss. Always living a good Christian life he was superintendent of the Sunday school up until his death. He fought in Civil War, in many of the battles which are studied about in school today and was wounded and at the close of the war, mustered out with a good record. After the war he was employed by the Newark Lime and Cement Company, at Whitport as teamster, where as usual he made many friends. There he was known as "Pony Freer" a name which will be remembered by all who worked with him and many who only knew him by that name. His wife, Rebecca, died on April 28, 1917. At that time his children were all married and his granddaughter kept house for him until she was married in 1918, when he left his home and went to live with his daughter, Mrs. George Walton, who lived in the next house, where he could go back and forth to his own home whenever he wished. Often he would invite some one and go "up home" as he would say, and he would prepare dinner and spend the day with plenty of fun. His flower garden was perfect and will never be forgotten by anyone who ever saw it. The last few years he found this too tiresome so he made his home with his two daughters, Mrs. Walton and Mrs. Booth. As superintendent of Sunday school he was always willing to do his part whenever he was able to attend. On August 14, he was going to Kingston to shop on foot for a fractured hip. He recovered from it very nicely and was walking around using his crutch as a cane. When cold weather came he went to Poughkeepsie where he stayed with Mrs. Booth until his death on Sunday morning. It came as a great shock to his many friends and relatives. Funeral services were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Booth, conducted by the Rev. Chesborough of the Heading Methodist Church on February 4 at 10:30, with interment in Old Hurley cemetery. Pall bearers were Harry Freer, Rufus Freer, Cornelius Chambers, Charles Palmiste, Floyd Deitz and Fred Booth, all grandsons. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. He leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. George Walton and Mrs. Edwin Booth, two sons, Walter and Myron of Kingston, his grandsons, Robert Freer of Lomontville, Rufus Freer of Mount Marion, Fred Booth of Poughkeepsie, Harry Freer and Jacob Freer of Binnewater, five granddaughters, Mrs. Floyd Deitz of Binnewater, Mrs. Cornelius Chambers and Mrs. George Joy of Kingston, Mrs. Dory Diaz and Mrs. Charles Palmiste of Poughkeepsie, great grandchildren, Oral, Mary and Lola Deitz, Ulick, Lucinda and Zona Freer, Arthur Freer of Binnewater, Ruth Freer of Lomontville, Samuel Freer of Mt. Marion, Clifford and Howard Pine, Louis Palmiste of Poughkeepsie, besides a big host of friends who will mourn his loss. Will Freer services were conducted at the grave by members of the American Legion Post of Poughkeepsie.

Often he would invite some one and go "up home" as he would say, and he would prepare dinner and spend the day with plenty of fun. His flower garden was perfect and will never be forgotten by anyone who ever saw it. The last few years he found this too tiresome so he made his home with his two daughters, Mrs. Walton and Mrs. Booth. As superintendent of Sunday school he was always willing to do his part whenever he was able to attend. On August 14, he was going to Kingston to shop on foot for a fractured hip. He recovered from it very nicely and was walking around using his crutch as a cane. When cold weather came he went to Poughkeepsie where he stayed with Mrs. Booth until his death on Sunday morning. It came as a great shock to his many friends and relatives. Funeral services were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Booth, conducted by the Rev. Chesborough of the Heading Methodist Church on February 4 at 10:30, with interment in Old Hurley cemetery. Pall bearers were Harry Freer, Rufus Freer, Cornelius Chambers, Charles Palmiste, Floyd Deitz and Fred Booth, all grandsons. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. He leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. George Walton and Mrs. Edwin Booth, two sons, Walter and Myron of Kingston, his grandsons, Robert Freer of Lomontville, Rufus Freer of Mount Marion, Fred Booth of Poughkeepsie, Harry Freer and Jacob Freer of Binnewater, five granddaughters, Mrs. Floyd Deitz of Binnewater, Mrs. Cornelius Chambers and Mrs. George Joy of Kingston, Mrs. Dory Diaz and Mrs. Charles Palmiste of Poughkeepsie, great grandchildren, Oral, Mary and Lola Deitz, Ulick, Lucinda and Zona Freer, Arthur Freer of Binnewater, Ruth Freer of Lomontville, Samuel Freer of Mt. Marion, Clifford and Howard Pine, Louis Palmiste of Poughkeepsie, besides a big host of friends who will mourn his loss. Will Freer services were conducted at the grave by members of the American Legion Post of Poughkeepsie.

The funeral of Charles Reynolds, which was held at the funeral chapel of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was largely attended by relatives and friends, merchants, professional men, members of the Elks, of which order he was a member, and representatives of the First National Bank of Rondout and the U. & D. Railroad, where he had been employed for years. There were a number of floral tributes. The services were conducted by the Rev. of M. H. Knapp, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. Interment was in the Reynolds family plot in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Anna O'Toole, widow of Nicholas D. O'Toole and mother of Mrs. James L. Daster and Betty O'Toole, died at her residence, 567 West 161st street, New York city, on Thursday, February 12, 1925.

Funeral on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the chapel and at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, where a requiem Mass will be offered for

MONTREAL QUEEN OF WHEAT PORTS

Exports Exceed Those of Combined United States Rivals.

Washington.—For the fourth successive year Montreal announces its supremacy as the greatest wheat exporting city in North America. So great is the yellow flow through Montreal that its shipments abroad exceeded the combined exports of its even chief rivals in the United States, New York, Galveston, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Boston, up to September of last year.

"The staff of life has been a magic word for the Canadian metropolis," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington.

"Waving it, Montreal raises another skyscraper on her water front, takes an elevator to the fifteenth floor of No. 1, St. Lawrence river, Montreal's chief wheat 'office,' look out a window to the west, and the story of Montreal and its part in supplying that grain lies revealed.

"At one's feet an ocean liner rests snugly against a wharf, beside a long pier which sprouts below like a foot of the skyscraper itself. Within that gallery huge, wide, running belts are man-made creek beds for a streamer full of wheat. The liner is receiving in its hold the product of more than ten acres of wheat land every minute.

"Close under the protecting shadow of the liner lies a smaller steamship, with lines like a German dachshund; such open deck lies between the superstructures fore and aft. Beneath the hatches which cut the deck into a gridiron is more yellow wheat from Port Colborne, Ontario, waiting to be stored in the grain elevator. In the open water of this harbor sector floating like cavalry horses. Now and then, with a snort of white steam and a puff of black smoke, they dart from their 'company front' on double quick to push some ocean leviathan in or out of its berth.

Neck of Grain Bottle.

"At the right of the tug line is the main neck of North America's wheat bottle, the end of the Lachine canal. Montreal is the queen of wheat ports and more than 60 per cent of her 'yellow gold' comes down the St. Lawrence by water. Over to the left the sun catches the glint of white water on the Lachine rapids, head of navigation of the 1,000-mile nature-made canal which is this bottle's mouth. Beating the rapids is the spidery black line of the Victoria bridge, with trains shunting across it almost constantly. To the right, under wooded Mount Royal, in the city, founded by Chevalier Maisonneuve, but built as much as anything by wheat.

"Westward the canal and railroad blend with the smoky mist through which one seems to see the winding miles of river, the blue of the Great Lakes and the breadth of the valleys of the Red river and Mississippi—flat plains where the sky is a cover pressed to earth at the horizon and wheat is filling between the crusts. Montreal's life springs are in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Minnesota and the Dakotas, where winter white gives way to green in spring, golden in summer, brown stubble in fall and back to white again.

"Most things must be viewed from the bottom up, but not a Montreal grain elevator; it works from the top down. As soon as a boat or train is emptied the wheat goes by conveyors to the top, finding lodging in huge bins. On the next floor below it is weighed. Stationed at a battery of huge containers dusty workmen let in a flood of wheat from above. They can estimate a ton to a fraction of a pound. Released by a lever, the grain falls a floor to a five-foot moving belt. Almost before it can settle down to a pleasant ride it reaches a big steel cart on rails which precipitately dumps it into what looks like a bottomless pit, but isn't. Later the wheat will emerge from the pit for another belt ride, through galleries stretching a mile and a quarter along the water front, to be dumped summarily into an ocean liner or tramp.

"Receiving grain is more complicated than dispatching it. At Duluth or Port Arthur or Fort William big lake freighters take wheat from box cars and bring it to Port Colborne, at the head of the Wellington canal, or to Buffalo or Cleveland if it goes out through the United States. At Port Colborne steamers that can just squeeze through the locks of the St. Lawrence canals take on the wheat. At Montreal, finally, huge bucket conveyors are lowered from the elevator through the hatches and start the grain to the skyscraper's top. As grain in the ship's hold gets low, men with huge steel scoops go in. A rope is attached to each scoop and when the workman has dug it into a pile of grain a winch on signal pulls it up to the conveyor snout, filling the buckets with grain. Four lake steamer loads, or a train of 118 cars of grain, are required to fill an average ocean tramp.

"Automatic car dumpers have been installed in some Montreal elevators. Picking up a loaded car like a toy, they push in the door, tip the car on its side, emptying the wheat into a pit and set it back on its wheels at the rate of one box car in a little less than ten minutes."

Bar Steel Traps
Rushville, Mo.—A nationwide movement against the steel trap was launched when a "stop the steel trap" society was formed. L. F. Gingers, editor of the Red Ranger, a foxhound magazine, was elected president.

FILTER INVENTED TO STRAIN OUT DISCORD

Professor at the University of Iowa Seeks to Make Unpleasant Sounds Kill Each Other.

Iowa City, Iowa.—By causing successive waves of sound to interfere with each other's transmission, Dr. G. W. Stewart, a professor of physics at the University of Iowa, has perfected a device which, he believes, in time may be used to eliminate undesirable noises and to adjust sounds "to an individual's esthetic taste."

With the theory that sound waves would expend themselves were they placed in conflict with one another, Doctor Stewart worked out his device, which he calls an acoustic wave filter. The results are obtained, Doctor Stewart explains, not by placing obstructions in the path of sound, but by setting up a sort of battle between the various waves, thus causing a disordered transmission.

A brass tube one-half inch in diameter and six inches long, containing nothing but air and open at both ends is caused to transmit all tones of a piano up to a certain note, and above this to transmit no audible sound. With another and slightly different tube the tones below this same, or any other note, will be refused transmission, whereas all higher tones pass freely.

"Other equally remarkable results of a similar nature can be obtained," said Doctor Stewart in explaining his device. "The tubes, while entirely open and free from obstructions, have, at regular intervals, branching tubes and chambers. At each branching point waves are reflected backward through the tube. The design of the branches can be made in such a manner as to produce a backward reflection and an interference of almost any group of tones."

Doctor Stewart explained that he considered the device truly a filter. It is a new basic method of manipulating sound waves and may find application in many acoustic devices in use. "The telephone, the phonograph and even musical instruments themselves may sooner or later profit by this new device," Doctor Stewart said. "In fact, there is opened to the imagination the possibility of the elimination of undesirable noises and the enjoyment of sounds adjusted to an individual esthetic taste."

Threat Was Too Much

Public Occurrences, which appeared in Boston, Mass., September 25, 1890, was the first newspaper in America. It started out well by promising to print all the news without fear or favor, and to promote the interests of Boston. It also promised that in its next issue it would publish the names of all the liars in Boston. The authorities, taking notice of the threat, forbade publication, so Public Occurrences gave up in disgust and died in fact, to make both ends vegetables."

100 Detroit Schoolgirls Quit to Wed in 4 Months

Lansing, Mich.—Within four months 100 Detroit girls under sixteen years of age, some of them only fourteen, have left school to get married. State Senator George M. Condon of Detroit said this in support of a bill he has introduced to punish the giving of false information to obtain marriage licenses. The penalty would be a fine not to exceed $100; 30 days in jail, or both.

The bill also would empower county clerks to demand birth certificates, or affidavits whenever he suspects applicants are under twenty-one years old. The requirement for the parents' consent under the age of eighteen years is retained. The bill is being advocated by Mrs. Robert Beattie of the Women's Citizens' league, according to Senator Condon.

Britons Forsake Frivols for Hard Facts of Life

London.—London hostesses are complaining that young men and women are taking life too seriously.

Eligible bachelors who once could always be relied upon to contribute to week-end festivities now frequently refuse such invitations on the plea of business.

Girls whose minds formerly were concerned mainly with dancing and dresses now take an interest in serious things. Many debutantes are following politics with unprecedented enthusiasm; a large number of girls keep political diaries and have albums of photographs of members of parliament instead of the former collections of autographs and photographs of good-looking actors.

Scholarships in France for American Students

Washington.—Receipt of a number of scholarships and fellowships for American students in French universities and normal schools from the French department of education was announced today by the American council of education. The scholarships, offered in appreciation of similar courtesies extended to French students, in the United States, are open, with a few exceptions, to American-born men or women graduates of institutions approved by the council.

Two scholarships each are made available at the universities of Bordeaux, Lyons, Nancy, and Toulouse, and one each at Strasbourg, Grenoble and Paris.

It's Hard

Otto Kahn, the New York financier, said in an interview on his return from Europe:

"The French people are prosperous. Never has such prosperity, such spending, been seen in France."

"It's different in tax-ridden England," Mr. Kahn went on. "The English workman can't make both ends meet. The poor fellow finds it hard, in fact, to make both ends vegetables."

MUCH LIKE CAMERA IS THE HUMAN EYE

Optic, However, Infinitely Superior in Operation.

Quite simply, the eye is a camera, with a series of lenses arranged in a dark chamber; the iris serves as a shutter, and the object of the whole apparatus is to form on the retina—the sensitive plate at the back of the eye—an image of the object photographed, says a writer in My Magazine, London.

When a beam of light comes from the object it passes through the cornea and other layers of the outer part of the eye. All of these substances are rather complicated. But think what happens.

An ordinary photographic camera needs painstaking adjustment in order to obtain clear images of near or far objects. An opera glass must have its lenses screwed backward and forward. So must a telescope, in a much more prodigious way. But the eye focuses itself on near or distant objects without winking. It is as quick as thought. This is what is called the eye's power of accommodation.

What the eye does is first to contract the pupil, making it smaller when looking at a near object, and then to alter the front surface of the lens, making it more curved, or, let us say, more convex. When the eye shifts its gaze from near to distant objects the eye lets the front surface of its principal lens get a little larger and flatter. It does not do all these things without our knowing it; we wish it done, and it is done. But we scarcely realize the number of eye muscles, six at least, which are called into play when focusing.

As for the sensitive plate behind the eye, that is even more wonderful; and, after all our study of it, it is not altogether understood yet. It is a plate with ten layers, of which the most important that we will mention are the rods and cones, the granular layers and the nerve-fiber layers.

The rods and cones are really the ends of the nerves that lead to the brain. They are sensitive to light, which is to say that when the beam of light coming through the lens falls on them it actually alters them. In the outer parts of the rods there is a stuff called visual purple, and when light falls on this it first becomes yellow and then colorless. The visual purple is, let us say, the chemical of the photographic plate of the eye.

But the really wonderful thing about this retina, and all the layers of which it is made up, is that it is not merely sensitive to light; it can tell what sort of light. It can distinguish color. It is for ever taking instantaneous moving color photographs. It has a wonderful command of color. It can see, not merely the chief colors, the big six—red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet—but all the mixtures and gradations of these.

It has been noted of them that they can be arranged by the eye in octaves, and a great painter usually employs a range of four octaves or 32 hues.

Dig Wells in River Bed

Digging wells in the bed of a river to save the water supply seems like nonsense, but that is what engineers in the Santa Clara valley, in California, are planning to do for the sake of the 116,000 acres of prune trees. The usual method is proposed as a means of keeping the natural water supply from running into San Francisco bay. The region normally is provided with abundant artesian water from the mountains. For years it has percolated into the underlying gravel beds where it spread to the entire valley. But lately clay washed down with the freshets has formed a sort of blanket over which the water has passed without sinking into the lower strata. The "inverted wells," as they have been called, will penetrate this accumulation of silt and allow the streams to soak down to their natural reservoir of gravel and coarse sand. Advocates of this plan point out that it will save the cost of building large dams or other irrigation projects. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Sea Delivers Coal

On the bench of Buckhaven in Fifeshire, Scotland, the sea piles up coal some two or three feet thick. From the town come men, women and children with buckets, boxes, bags and wheelbarrows to get the family supply. From the country come farmers on their horses with bags to get their share. The coal is actually mined by the sea. Ground swells break away, the seams outcropping in the Firth of Forth and slowly carry the treasure to the shore. In stormy weather the product greatly increases.

Baby Plane Flies High

A remarkable new type of baby monoplane was completed recently by Edwin F. Allen, a test pilot, of Washington, D. C., who succeeded in flying it to a height of 1,800 feet. The little plane is equipped with a 3-horse power motorcycle engine and weighs only 205 pounds. Its wing spread is 27 feet, and it can make 63 miles an hour. —Popular Science Monthly.

Twine From Pine Trees

String that is said to be as strong as that made from hemp is being manufactured from the pulp of pine trees by a southern paper company. Popular Mechanics Magazine reports. The long fibers of the wood, three times the length of those of the spruce are well adapted for making into cord and the product is reported to be especially fitted for wrapping twine.

Action Demanded by Short-Story Readers

"Your work is excellent but unsalable." In these terse but kindly meant words a literary agent dismissed, a few days ago, a young author who had submitted to him some short stories. The young author complained later that it was useless to attempt to write artistic stories for the British public, writes a critic in the London Mail. "I am told that my work is good," he mourned. "But in England there is no demand for work that is above the average. It is necessary to sacrifice ideals in art if you expect to make a living. Every short-story writer has to submit to popular taste if he wishes to sell his stories."

The assumption, of course, was that popular taste is always bad taste. But is it?

There is a certain restricted class of reader who likes to know what people think rather than what they do. Such a reader can find enormous pleasure in books or short stories in which all adventures are adventures of the mind. But by far the greater number of readers of fiction prefer action. They have no patience with the school of writers who believe that to reveal the innermost thoughts of a man or woman who does nothing is the supreme test of artistry.

To expel from the ranks of good books all novels which are novels of action would be to cut out some of the greatest stories written. No longer should we be able to rejoice in the adventures of the Three Musketeers or follow the doings of a David Copperfield.

Popular taste asks for romance, for stories of courage and movement, of human impulses and deep-seated emotions common to us all. Is popular taste wrong?

Fair Game

An English tourist who was staying at a farmhouse in a Scottish parish was told by his landlord one morning to take the gun and go to the field and "shoot something." A little later while going down a lane, his gun under his arm, the tourist met a small boy making for the school.

"I say, my boy," he remarked, "is there anything to shoot down here?" The boy looked around for a moment, and then answered with eagerness:

"Ay, there's the skulmeister cowerin' over the hill!"

Blue Books

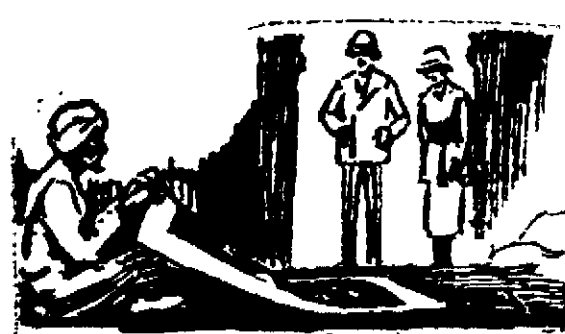

In England blue books are official reports or other publications presented by the crown to both houses of parliament. They are called blue books because each volume is covered with a blue wrapper. In this country the term "blue book" is applied to a publication containing the names and addresses of persons employed by the government. A directory containing the names and addresses of persons prominent in society is also called a blue book. —Pathfinder Magazine.

Noted Sculptress Born in Rhinebeck

Mrs. Elsie Hinton Bracken, sculptress, died of pneumonia Thursday at her home in Washington Square, New York city. Mrs. Bracken was born in Rhinebeck, July 26, 1863. She was the widow of William Barrie Bracken, a lawyer, to whom she was married in 1900. A year after she obtained a divorce from the late James H. Hunker, music critic.

Mrs. Bracken studied in Paris with Rodin, St. Gaudens and MacMonnies. At the age of 20 she won a $10,000 prize of her statue of General Fremont in Montana. Another of her principal works is a bust of Paderewski. She exhibited at the Paris salon, the National Academy of Design and international expositions.

Mrs. Bracken is survived by three children and a sister, Mrs. Richard Le Gallienne, wife of the author. The children are Eric Hunker, Barrie Bracken and Mrs. Richard Thorner Tjader, all of New York city.

V. M. JARDINE

Although the White House has withheld comment, it is believed the President has decided upon William M. Jardine of Kansas, as his next Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Jardine was a cattle puncher in Montana at fifteen, and then attended Utah Agricultural College, where later he was an instructor. He has been head of the Kansas Agricultural College since 1913 and is a member of the President's Agricultural Council.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

Jilly Allen gives a brand new change of program at the Kingston Opera House tonight and Saturday. The new bill is a Broadway hit "Broadway Vanities." It opens with a most beautiful stage setting dressed with a lavish display of costumes and a wealth of scenic effects. Catchy and popular songs and dance numbers lively with the comedians and a pretty song by baby Mae DePew all go to make up a good entertainment. There are three performances daily and the photoplay feature is "Snowed Out" in "Sword of Valor" an exciting Spanish romance with a thrilling every second.

"The Painted Lady," the William Fox special production featuring George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackall, which is booked to open at Kenney's tonight and Saturday is more than an adaptation from the daringly realistic story of Larry Evans. It's life itself. Its South Sea love, fierce hate, romance, painted passion and vengeance, "shot" from the scenario by Thomas Dixon, Jr., under the brilliant direction of Chester Bennett.

Capt. Fowler's Talk on Kingston

rum breeding trouble caused by the Indians continued until May 1658, when the settlers appealed to Governor Stuyvesant for protection. Stuyvesant immediately came here and met the people on Ascension Thursday immediately after church for it was their custom to hold religious services on that day and told them that they must concentrate and form a village with a stockade so as to protect themselves. They were at first unwilling but when Stuyvesant told them peremptorily that they must consent at once or remove to Fort Orange or Manhattan they finally agreed. As soon as the agreement was signed Stuyvesant proceeded to select a spot for the village—this was no satisfactory job for each one wished it where his own house stood to be clear for building another, and the site as selected was bounded east by Clinton avenue, north by North Front street, west by Green street and south by Main street. A stockade fourteen feet high was built around it which was protected by steep banks on three sides, on the south it was exposed by level ground—a part was fortified and there were six gates to the village. Streets were laid out that are practically the same today as they were then.

Stockade Not Marked Out.

No one has ever yet marked the boundary of the old stockade but I have been living in hopes that the Chamber of Commerce might do it some day. The population of the place at that time was about seventy of which thirty were men. It is said that within three weeks after the people started the village they had completed the stockade and removed and rebuilt all their houses within the stockade. The houses built at that time were unquestionably built of logs or wood in view of the short time it took to complete the village. In 1658 this village was entirely burned by the Indians with the exception of one unfinished barn and one storehouse. Again the inhabitants had to start all over and rebuild—probably then or shortly after they commenced to build of more substantial material for at least one of the old stone houses still standing is said to have been built in 1676 and even at the time of this fire some of the buildings were evidently of stone for Dominicus Riem writing about it says, "the houses were converted into heaps of stone." On May 16, 1658, Governor Stuyvesant as Director General executed a formal charter to the inhabitants of Kingston, which was confirmed by the municipality. The name of "Willemstad" in commemoration of the fact that the soil was a free gift from the Indians.

Time will permit me to talk only upon some of the important events and so we come down to Sunday, April 24th, 1777, at which time in the old Court House on Wall street, where the present one now stands, the first constitution of this state was adopted. Here, on the 20th day of July 1777, George Clinton took the oath of office as the first governor of this state and in this building the first grand jury held under the first constitution met on September 24th, 1777, and was presided over by Chief Justice Jay, who was the second governor of this state. This spot is truly an historical one—only a few years ago the body of Governor Clinton, who was vice-president of the United States at the time of his death in 1812, was brought back from Washington and was reburied in the Old Dutch Church Yard about a stone's throw from and to the left of the spot where he took the oath of office as first governor of this state.

Port Jervis Here Tonight

The Kingston High School basketball team will play the Port Jervis team tonight at seven-thirty at the local high school. The Kingston team has beaten Port Jervis once by a 15-11 score. The Sullivan county boys have one of the strongest teams in the league, and will make the Colonial boys work for a second victory.

Kingston has but three more league games to play, and has a chance of standing first in the final vote.

Temper Glassware

By tempering glassware its life can be greatly prolonged. To do this tempering the glass should be completely immersed in a pan of cool water and be brought slowly to a boil, kept there for a few minutes, and then allowed to cool off. Leave glassware in the water until cold. This method is especially valuable for ware which is to be subjected to extremes of heat and cold, as the breaking resistance is greatly increased.

Final Round in Baseball Scandal

Judge Landis Is Expected to End Investigations, Etc., Into Last Season's Baseball Scandal—Dolan Not Likely to Be Reinstated.
(By Daisy J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 13.—The skeleton in baseball's family closet will be tenderly laid to rest within the next 48 hours and thereafter will rattle no more.

Judge Landis will officiate at the obsequies and they will be simple, effective and final. He will arrive in this city on Sunday morning and at the brief conference with the district attorney, a decision will be reached as to whether Jimmy O'Connell shall be punished further for his part in the affair or permitted to go his future way unmolested.

Landis's attitude has been forecast as one of tolerance and clemency toward O'Connell, whose loss in food and honor has been deemed sufficient to cover his offense. If Landis says the word, the skeleton will have rattled its last.

As matters stand, the district attorney has let it be known that he will be guided by Landis in his future indictments, if any. He stands ready to prosecute him. But Landis may not say the word because the man he is after is not Jimmy O'Connell.

He is an unnamed and unidentified somebody who was so much smarter than O'Connell that he covered his trail perfectly, leaving James holding the well known bag. It seems unlikely that the man in question, if he exists at all, will ever be apprehended.

With the start of another season, there will hardly be a headstone to mark the scandal's dishonored grave, unless Cozy Dolan revives the issue temporarily with a civil suit for re-instatement. I am pleased to doubt that he will.

Dolan, however, will make formal application to Landis for reinstatement but it is almost certain that he as a tailor's iron. The district attorney and Kelly both contented himself with the rather pointed inference that Dolan's conduct during the first investigation had laid him open to a suspicion of guilt, which had not been removed in the meantime.

The judge, therefore, would have no reason to tinker his own bet. It was his decision that Dolan was guilty and the judge is not one to admit an error while the official scorer happens to be scoring the play as a clean hit.

Track Records

Again Shattered
Flying Finn Broke Three More World Records—Ritola Lowers Mark For Two Miles Made By Nurm.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buffalo, Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi, with a show of speed that could be likened to a continuous sprint, the Finnish marvel of the Olympic games shattered three world records not merely broke them by fractions of seconds but shattered them by many seconds in his special event of a meet staged last night by the 10th Field Artillery Athletic Association.

The records to fade and fall beneath the flying feet of the wonder runner were the 2,000 yard mark, which he reduced from 5:00 4-5 to 4:53 3-5; the 2,000 metre mark, which he cut from 5:33 to 5:22 2-5; and the mile and a quarter mark, which he dragged from 5:30 1-5 to 5:23 4-5, six and two fifths seconds faster than it had ever been run before.

But a short half hour after Nurmi's great run, Willie Ritola, his greatest rival and a countryman, contributed another epochal and sensational performance, sharing honors with Paavo when he broke all marks for the two miles, running the distance in 9:03 4-5; shattering the time made by Nurmi only last Saturday at the Wilco games in Brooklyn by the wide margin of four and one fifth seconds.

EXPECT SELL-OUT FOR DELANEY-SLATTERY BOUT
By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 13.—Another sell-out was in prospect for Madison Square Garden tonight when Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., knocked victor over Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers, will meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in a return bout of six rounds. Slattery "took" Delaney the last time out and the consensus of opinion today was that he would repeat, the distance being ideally suited to his great speed.

Yankees' Going South.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 13.—Trail blazers for the main detachment of players who later will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., a party of five Yankees ball players will leave today to join Babe Ruth for the annual boating out at Hot Springs. The party will include Everett Scott, Wally Schang, Sam Jones, Steven O'Neill and Urban Shocker. The last two named were added to the roster during the off season. O'Neill being obtained from Boston and Shocker from St. Louis.

Game at Epworth Hall.
Tonight at Epworth Hall, the Clinton Avenue Seniors will play the St. Joseph's team. The game will start at 7 o'clock with no preliminary game. A large number of followers of both teams are expected to turn out to see the contest for the third game of the series.

Foul Shooting Wins for Locals

Kingston Beat Yonkers at Armory Court in Tame Affair—Visitors Caged the Most Field Goals.

Yonkers and the Kingston team battled in a rather slow struggle Thursday evening at the armory court, the final score ending in the Morgenweckers favor, 32 to 25.

Although the collarities were beaten they outscored the locals from the floor, 5 to 4. Kingston's edge came from the foul line, caging 24 out of 33 attempts. Yonkers made good but 15 out of 31 from the complimentary line. Ricoonda led the scorers with 12 points, closely followed by McElwain with 11 points.

In the opening session the locals got off to an early start and remained in front by a small margin throughout. Three of the four fields made by the Morgenweckers came in the first half. McElwain saved Yonkers from a shut out from the food in the first period. The score at half time ended in Kingston's favor, 18 to 10.

In the final period C. Powers saved the locals from being scoreless from the playground. Yonkers in this period made good four from the field. Saunders played in a forward position and his work was very good. M. Husta replaced Saunders in the final minutes. Kingston had eight men in uniform. Artus and Tetteman not getting into the game.

The score:

Kingston.	F.G.	F.P.	Tot.
Saunders, R. L.	0	4	4
Ricoonda, I. F.	2	8	12
Powers, C. I.	1	4	6
C. Husta, R. G.	1	6	8

DECATHLON REPLACES PENTATHLON IN 1925

Pennsylvania Relay Carnival Has Been Changed.

The pentathlon, which for a decade has been one of the feature events of the annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, will be replaced this year by the decathlon.

The action of the Olympic committee in removing the pentathlon from the list of events and making the decathlon the test of all-around championship has caused Dr. George Orton, director of the relay carnival, to make the change.

That the pentathlon served its usefulness in developing athletes to represent this country in the all-around championships was demonstrated by the victories of American college athletes in both the decathlon and pentathlon.

The Pennsylvania relay carnival has always been maintained with a view to keeping American college athletes prepared for Olympic competition. It was at this reason that the discus and javelin were added to the program several years before they were placed on the list of events in the I. C. A. A. meet.

The events for the decathlon are, 100-meter flat, running broad jump, putting the weight, running high jump, 400-meter flat, 110-meter high hurdle, throwing the discus, pole vault, throwing the javelin and 1,500-meter flat race.

The first five of these events will be held on Friday, April 24, and the others on the following day. Norton of Georgetown, who was second to Osborne in the Olympic all-around championships; Jones of DePauw university, and Rogers of Pennsylvania are among the most prominent entrants for the decathlon.

In the ten years of pentathlon championships, Howard Berry of Pennsylvania was the only athlete to win the title with five first places. He performed this unusual feat in 1917.

Chess Champion At Kingston Club

Geza Maroczy, (pronounced Gezah Marochy), the chess champion of Hungary, will give a lecture and exhibition at the Kingston Club on Monday evening, February 16, at 8:00 o'clock. The visiting list will be suspended for the evening and refreshments will be served.

Concerning this noted champion, The American Chess Bulletin says: "Keeping to the letter his appointment made over six months ago, Geza Maroczy arrived in New York on board the Steamship Lancastria from Southampton on January 13 and received a warm welcome at the deck from members of the Hungarian Chess Club. The famous Hungarian master has come to this country for the purpose of an extended tour of North America, during the course of which he hopes to go as far as the Pacific Coast. It will be recalled that in 1904 the earthquake interfered with his plan to go to San Francisco, where he had obtained an engagement. On that tour he made a host of friends who will doubtless welcome an opportunity to meet him again.

Maroczy, who won first prize in the tournament at the Christmas Congress of the Hastings and St. Leonard's Chess Club just before his departure, is open for engagements at any period from a day to a week at reasonable terms. He is prepared to give the usual exhibitions, either simultaneous, consultation or match play, and, in addition, will play a limited number of blindfold games taking on from six to eight boards at the same time. Clubs desiring to negotiate for his services may do so through the American Chess Bulletin.

On January 24, five days after his arrival, Maroczy gave his first performance at the Brooklyn Institute Chess Club, where he played against 22 with the result that he won 19 and drew three. The drawn games were scored by C. I. Crowell, G. Gregory and R. W. Humphrey.

On the afternoon of January 25, the noted visitor contested a consultation game at the Manhattan Chess Club, in which he was partnered by Samuel Katz against a team composed of Leonard B. Meyer and Alfred Schreuder. The result was a draw after 32 moves.

The University Club of New York engaged Maroczy for the afternoon and evening of February 4 and the Empire City Chess Club, for the evening of February 7.

Formation of Ice
The surface of a river or lake frozen into solidity, first at the top; so many water freezes it forms beneath that already frozen. Ice forms over fresh water if the temperature of the air has been for a sufficient time at or below freezing point, but freezing is only possible after the whole mass of water has been cooled down to its point of maximum density, so that the subsequent cooling of the surface will give rise to no convection currents, which would cause diffusion of heat.
